Fake rape charges: Cops arrest woman, associate

Express News Service

New Delhi, February 14: a woman and her alleged lover have been arrested for trying to implicating two men in a false rape case.

The woman is married and was having an affair with one Naveen Vishwakarma, a resident of Mandoli extension, the police said. Officers added she was offered by Rs 5,000 by a woman named Poonam to falsely implicate her husband Ramesh and his friend Vijay in a rape case. According to the police, as Naveen was heavily in debt, the woman agreed.

On wednesday morning, around 8:57 am, Naveen made a call to the police control room from a Gopalpur STD booth in Timarpur saying a woman had been raped by two people, the police said.

When the investigating officer sub-inspector Dharam Prakash reached the spot, he found the victim had been taken to Aruna Asaf Ali hospital. When he reached the hospital the "victim" told him that when she hired an autorickshaw from Mandoli for Ashok Vihar there was someone already sitting on the passenger seat. When the autorickshaw reached Gopalpur, the two men dragged her to an isolated spot and raped her, she said.

"There were several inconsistencies in her statement and we questioned her again. On repeated enquiry she broke down and confessed she had concocted the story," said a senior police officer.
