

The Washington Times

Advertise | RSS | Sitemap | About TWT | Contact Us | Subscription Services | Insider Login | Washington D.C. HAZE 54° F

News Elections Opinion Sports Sections Blogs Photos Classifieds Affiliates November 29, 2006

Corrections

Front Page > Corrections Page

Change Font Size: Normal | Large

Correction

November 29, 2006

Email | Print | Subscribe

Using a chart published in a 2005 U.N. Population Fund report - which the U.N. agency now says was misleading -- a London Daily Telegraph article published in Nov. 13 editions of The Washington Times incorrectly stated the frequency of wife abuse in India. The agency says that it does not have sufficient data to provide such a figure and that the chart was intended to show that 70 percent of Indian women who were abused by their husbands think such abuse is justified in at least some circumstances.

Add To Insider Newsclips | Click-2-Listen

advertisement

AT&T YAHOO!
HIGH SPEED INTERNET PRO
SWITCH AND GET 3 MONTHS FREE
$24<sup>99</sup> /mo
LEARN MORE >
For residential customers. 12 month term. See details. The new

Email | Print | Subscribe

Add To Insider Newsclips | Click-2-Listen

Front Page > Corrections Page

Search www.washingtontimes.com
Search Words
Long Term Archives

Informative Video Content
Covering The Latest
Medical Breakthroughs

The Washington Times
Insider
Register Here

Insider Politics Blog

Insider

- Short attention span
- But still the toast of Paris
- Life, recorded live